Dear Fay/mio!!!

I was originally going to write a paragraph but I thought "why not go the extra mile?" So Here I am ;))). Bear with me cause this will be a long read, I will take my time and pour all my feelings for you here. I love you a lot and I would go to any lengths to prove it to you. I'm terribly sorry I have been waking up super late and I'm aware how much you have probably missed me. I will make it up to you, tomorrow and thereafter; you know I rarely sleep THIS much. And I will always keep my phone on "sleep" mode while I'm napping or sleeping so I get your calls. Please keep calling to wake me up 😢 I love it. But this time, I will pick up.

This is not all I wanted to talk to you about. Recently, there have been times we have argued and I feel terrible about my faults. I will admit I'm still growing, I mean mentally and I won't stop growing. I have much to learn about myself and about you. I won't stop learning about you, me and this world, like ever. I'm deeply ashamed I swearer that day and I accept this feeling, cause it strives me to never do it again and learn from it. I promise I would never intentionally hurt you, I promise I would always love you and respect you and I promise I will always learn from those "not-so proudful" moments because you're everything that matters to me. You have no idea just how important you are to me.

I think how I see our relationship is like the vastness of space - there's not enough lifetimes for me to explore you down to every single atom of yours. But I'll try as long as I'm alive (and dead if afterlife is a thing). There are probably more than a million ways to impress you, to confess my love for you and I'll try to figure them all out - one by one. You are special. Since the time I started to get to know you, my intuition and my gut feelings were telling me "She's the one" and that I'd better make you mine AND I KNOW THIS IS VERY CLICHÉ AND CRINGE BTW, but I said it anyways. At that moment I knew I HAVE to spend my life with you, You're all I needed, then and now and forever. I'm going all IN, I want my life with you to be very comfortable, get whatever we want and that just fuels me to study more, Now you know my prime motivation. Doing so much math cause I wanna be better than others and be just done with selected topics lmao, its just one of the hurdles I'm facing in the grand scheme of life.

There's no letter I can write without admiring your beauty inside-out, So. Even the parts you're self-conscious about, I'm down-bad for them. Our minds are deceptive and not kind to us but its okay, I will admire your true beauty inside-out, always. You're gorgeous and you're cute, sexy AND BEAUTIFUL. You are HOT, I want you. I think you are more than PERFECT. Perfection is ultimately a limit, but you are so much more than that my love. You are the sole reason why I believe true -unconditional love exists. These feelings I feel for you raw and this inner desire for you to be happy and get you whatever you need, I have never felt this before.

Yours truly,
SPACE /SHUN!!!
